Hi Murat and *,

thank you for your message. I will try to answer your questions below.

> 1.

>

- > Although you said that "Everyone involved in this project would have
- > to (digitally) sign ...", we want to ensure on a point. Is the
- > contract signed either by all individual contributors or by a single
- > LTT representative or as LTT legal entity?

>

Individual contracts

> 2.

>

- > We will share the contributor information, but first could you share
- > a copy of the standard contract to present to the LTT team before
- > signing?

>

Please send me one/your address to set it up.

> 3.

>

- > You advised to start by reviewing the translations from 1.1 to 4.3
- > lessons in the previous email. But Topic 1 was also reviewed already
- > as you said. Starting the review from Topic 1, is it written
- > intentionally or a typo?

>

For consistency I would recommend to review the material (again) right from the beginning, i.e. Topic 1.

> 4.

>

- > We organized a fancy workshop on OmegaT usage with the LTT
- > localization team. And we improved our ability on the tool. Although
- > OmegaT seems to be a user-friendly utility, we want to ask about the
- > alternatives due to maintaining a single XML file. Is there any
- > possibility to use "poedit" or similar CAT tools in the scope of
- > this project?

It's OmegaT. To avoid conflicts your team may work on the six (soon seven) independent projects simultaneously.

> 5.

>

- > Will LPI GitLab server access be provided to us after signing the
- > contract?

>

Yes

> 6.

_

- > Should all contributors work on the LPI GitLab server? As an
- > alternative collaboration, LTT team can work on a mirror and the
- > last stable version of the documents can be pushed to LPI GitLab by
- > one representative contributor. We are open to hear best experiences
- > from your side.

>

Directly on git.lpi.org

> 7.

_

- > Could you also share the "Style Guide" document mentioned in the LPI
- > Translation Guide file?

_

Attached

> 8.

>

- > As said that "Each translation is proofread by (at least) one other
- > native speaker." in the LPI Translation Guide file, and so, will
- > that native speaker be someone who is not part of the LTT community?

>

This could be someone of your team, of course.

>

> Thanks for your patience in advance,

Thanks for your help! :)

Best regards, Markus